

BookVisit API

This page brings together the key information for partners and developers who want to connect to BookVisit for availability, booking, basket handling, guest details, and payment flows.

How to get started:

Request API access

Contact the BookVisit team to register your interest in integrating with the API. Access is provided through an approval process, and API keys are issued by BookVisit support.

Share your company details

To get set up, you may be asked to provide:

- Company name
- Organization number
- Contact person
- Email address
- Phone number
- Invoice address
- A short description of how you plan to use the API

Sign required agreements

Before access is granted, relevant agreements may need to be signed. This can include an NDA, and if a third party is handling the integration, that party may also need to sign.

Receive documentation and credentials

Once approved, you'll get access to the BookVisit API documentation and the credentials needed to begin development. This includes API authentication details and technical references for the booking flow.

Build and test

Use the documentation to authenticate, search availability, create baskets, add customer details, select payment, and complete bookings. Integrations should be tested in the designated setup before launch.

Go live

Before production use, your integration may need to complete an approval or certification step to ensure it works reliably in a live environment.
